

Diffusion®

Diffusion™
CLOUD

The Smart Choice in a Demanding World™

Expert Services & Support - When You Need It, How You Need It

The Push Technology Support and Services team offers you a decade of experience working with customers' engineering teams to develop, test, and optimize data-driven, mission-critical, corporate applications. Our in-depth market knowledge, test suite, and development expertise, assure that your applications are reliable, infrastructure-efficient, and highly-scalable, to guarantee successful delivery of the performance required to meet your business growth objectives.

Our Diffusion Intelligent Data Platform is purpose-built to synchronize, manage, and optimize streaming data and message delivery. With Diffusion, developers do not have to worry about the intricacies of data management. On-premise, in-the-cloud, or in hybrid environments - Diffusion makes application development simpler.

To further simplify and speed your application development, we are much more than a product company. Our customer services team has the knowledge and experience, to support development, testing, and deployment of high performance, massively scalable, real-time applications. To compete effectively, you need a product and service partner with market experience and an in-depth understanding of the nuances of your market and application users.

Push Technology is focused on real-time data streaming and messaging, handling and performance – all data, not just messages. Your infrastructure configuration (on-premise, in-the-cloud, or a hybrid); network latency issues; connection quality, transmission frequency, and scalability needs; and the “data intelligence” of your systems must be addressed in order to satisfy your business requirements.

Push Technology pioneered streaming data and messaging technology, and the support services required to rapidly and successfully deploy real-time, data-dependent applications. We have honed our expertise for a decade, we understand your challenges, and our products and services are purpose-built to assure your business success.

The Smart Choice in a Demanding World™

Expert Services & Support - When You Need It, How You Need It

Standard Product Support

Expert assistance from our technical support team and field engineers is just a phone call away. Plus comprehensive on-line documentation and sample code is available at your fingertips. We also offer a wide array of support plans tailored to fit the exact needs of your technical team.

Service Level Assurance

Push Technology's experts are available to respond to your questions and calls within minutes, not hours or days. Your schedule is our schedule.

Diffusion Test Suite

Push Technology's Diffusion Test Suite service provides you with a configurable environment in which to test the performance and robustness of your application, at massive scale, during development and before you applications go live and serve your users. Simply schedule a test and receive a comprehensive performance report.

Consulting Services

Need help with your infrastructure sizing, determining optimal operational system configuration, or need general technical expertise to assist your team with your application development and deployment plan? Our experts are available to help with any of the challenges your team faces and to guarantee the successful launch of your applications.

Special Event Support

Push Technology offers Special Event Support for customers who want "insurance" to assure smooth operations during business-critical events. Special Event Support options are available for dedicated Push Technology support experts to provide remote and/or at-the-event support.

Solution Packages

Ask us about our Standard, Expansion, and Enterprise Solution Packages that speed the development, test, and deployment of your applications. Each Solution Package comprises: the products you need – Diffusion, Diffusion Cloud, or a hybrid configuration, and the Diffusion Test Suite - plus an optimal set of consulting and support services, for a cost-effective, bundled price.

Push Technology Solution Packages are based upon our substantial market experience and resulting expert knowledge of the services required to effectively develop, test, and deploy high-performance, Enterprise-grade, mission-critical business applications. Our Solution Packages shorten your development cycle, optimize your budget, and speed your applications into successful production operation to drive your revenue and business growth.